AGENT IS VOTED BY COURT

Here and There

Editorial By ALEX. H. WASHBURN
ROGER W. BABSON is famous as a statistician, not as a political observer—and, therefore, reading his statement today that political truth lies neither with Republicans nor Democrats, but "with a combination of both," we find ourselves totally unimpressed. As a political observer Mr. Babson has added up two and two, and the solution "four" isn't very startling, coming from a statistician.

900 Are Employed on Home Repairs

650 Modernization Jobs Get Under Way in Pulaski County

LITTLE ROCK—Nine hundred men are being employed on 650 repair and modernization jobs in Pulaski county as a result of the campaign being conducted by the Pulaski County Better Home Campaign Committee, Hal L. Orwood, state director of the Federal Housing Administration, announced here Tuesday. A total of 4,000 homes have been visited in the house-to-house canvass, which is being made to explain the housing program to property owners and tell them how loans to repair and modernize their homes can be obtained here. Building permits issued by the Little Rock city engineer's office during October totaled $78,148.78, $45,915 of which was for new construction. A total of 137 permits for $28,714.79 were issued for repair work on residences. W. H. Marak, city engineer, said that more permits were issued in October than for any October in the past five years. He attributed the large increase to the better housing campaign. Financial institutions in Greater Little Rock have reported 115 loans, aggregating $82,000, Mr. Norwood said. Canvassers said in their reports that several property owners have taken out of work boxes to make repairs since the campaign opened and that others are using their savings. A list of prospects for repair work is being made daily by the county better housing office from reports of canvassers and is being turned over to contractors. Many property owners are calling the county housing headquarters requesting the names of reputable contractors.

Alexander Gaden, of Movies, Selling Medicine in Hope

Was Mary Pickford's Leading Man on Screen 25 Years Ago

HIS FORTUNE GONE

Last Role Was That of Villain With Bill Hart in "White Oak"

By Leonard Ellis
It's a far distance from the bright lights of Broadway—from fame and fortune as a movie star in Hollywood—to the street corners of Hope with a medicine show—but that is the amazing story uncovered here Tuesday. When Arthur Swank, manager of the Saenger theater, strolled up the street shortly after noon Tuesday he saw a dignified, well-dressed man at Second and Main streets. He was mounted on a little platform, telling of the qualifiers of a package of medicine he held in his hand. Gaden Is Recognized
Mr. Swank recognized him. He hurried to The Star office, and a reporter immediately went up to get an interview. The medicine man that Mr. Swank recognized was no other than Alexander Gaden, who played the leading man in Mary Pickford's first starring picture, "Fanchon the Cricket," some 25 years ago. Since then he had starred in more than 200 motion pictures, in the last of which he played the villain role, William S. (Bill) Hart's picture, "White Oak." Preceding the Hart picture, Mr. Gaden played one of the leading roles in "Love Special," starring Wallace Reid. He has been cast as the leading man in many vaudeville shows in New York, Chicago, Cleveland and other large cities. At one time he won the New York Telegraph's movie star popularity contest. Retired at 48
"I played in the movies until I was 48," he said. "The directors kept throwing 16-year-old feminine stars at me—and the camera wouldn't stand for it. That's why I was forced to quit." "Since then my fortune has dwindled." (Continued on page six)

Tax Hike Denied by Quorum Courts

They Follow Advice of Governor Futrell to Ignore Proposal

LITTLE ROCK—Taking the advice of Governor Futrell, nearly all quorum courts in annual meetings Monday refused to increase the state millage tax rate although a new rate a half mill higher than last year's had been certified by them. The additional half-mill levy, which would raise the tax rate for state purposes from 8.7 mills to 9.2 mills, was certified out under Act No. 10 of 1931, which levied it as a guarantee of payment of debt service for state Agricultural Credit Board bonds. Of counties reporting Monday night, only Mississippi county levied the increased state tax rate of 9.2 mills.

Robson, handcuffed, is shown here, with Deputy U. S. Marshal T. W. Hunt, after pleading not guilty. The suspect is a former Tucson night club operator and dude raucher, known as the southwest's "play-boy." Federal agents say his handwriting corresponds with that on the $15,000 ransom notes.

Security Pledged French by Flandin

New Premier Declares He Will Battle Dictatorship or Revolution

PARIS, France.—(AP)—Premier Pierre Etienne Flandin promised Parliament Tuesday he and the cabinet, France's new government, would defend the nation against dictatorship and revolution. His statement was read to the Parliament shortly after the cabinet had ordered no parades or assemblages be permitted during the day. When the previous cabinet went before Parliament disorders broke out. Flandin plans a campaign to relieve economic stress and unemployment, leaving state reforms until later. Edouard Herriot, Radical Socialist, whose resignation last week wrecked the cabinet of Gaston Doumergue, intimated Tuesday that he quit his aged chair because he suspected him of contemplating a coup d'etat. Doumergue had asked Parliament to abdicate certain powers, to strengthen the executive department—which led to accusations by the Radical Socialists that the government was headed for a Fascist dictatorship. 20 Pages of Comics Here's big news for every man, woman and child. Silk Weavers to Stage Walk-Out

15,000 Scheduled to Strike Unless Employers Meet Terms

PATERSON, N. J.—(AP)—A general strike of 15,000 workers probably will be called for Monday in the Passaic valley, Eli Keller, general manager of the Associated Silk Workers union, announced Tuesday. The strike call to the silk weavers would have the effect of virtually paralyzing the entire silk industry in this area, for production is already badly crippled because of the silk and rayon dyers' strike. Keller said the weavers' union would call its strike unless the employers agreed to a revival of last year's contract.

Perhaps Here's Why They Went Barefoot

CHICAGO —(AP)—At last it has come to light why some of the soldiers at Valley Forge probably lost their shoes! A letter from Col. Rufus Putnam of Washington's forces to supply headquarters, put on exhibit by the Chicago Historical Society in connection with Armistice Day, revealed this order: "Please to procure for my regiment one set of dice and place the same to account of the Fifth Massachusetts regiment, for which the officers are to be held accountable."

Long's oppositionist was Representative Jack Williamson, 25, of Lake Charles. The committee ground out bill after bill of the 44 measures Long is showing through the legislature. The committee's vote on each was 12 to 1.

Coalition Is Next Step, Says Babson

A Statistician Gives Out an Interview on American Politics

BOSTON, Mass.—(AP)—Roger W. Babson, the statistical expert, suggested Thursday that President Roosevelt's present administration should be followed by a coalition government. "The Democrats are right when insisting on more equal opportunities and in favor of the plain people at the expense of the few," he said. "The Republicans, however, are equally right in appealing for more rugged individualism and insisting upon rewards and punishments." The truth, Babson asserted, lies with a combination of both Republicans and Democrats.

10% of Rail RFC Loans in Default

Missouri Pacific Owes 23 Millions—Most of Roads Well Off

WASHINGTON —(AP)—Chairman Jesse H. Jones of the Reconstruction Corporation said Monday that $55,000,000 of the corporation's $483,000,000 in railroad loans are in default. He also announced that the corporation was beginning a study of the financial situation of railroad borrowers to obtain information on the railroad problem. Railroads in default to the corporation were listed as follows: Missouri Pacific $23,134,000; Rock Island 13,410,000; Chicago, North Shore & Milwaukee 1,150,000; Chicago & Eastern Illinois 5,760,000; Central of Georgia 2,894,000; St. Louis & San Francisco 5,190,000; Tennessee Central 147,000; Western Pacific 5,063,000. Two other roads were in technical default for small amounts, but Jones did not disclose their names. Asked if he thought the railroad situation was "bad," the chairman said: "I don't know any other industry that could have lost one half its gross business and still have so few come to trouble. It looks like only about 10 out of the nation's 150 roads are unable to pay their interest. That is an unusually good record."

President Not So Good as a Prophet

He Makes 16 Mistakes in White House Election Contest

WASHINGTON—Final election returns as tabulated Monday showed Marvin H. McIntyre, assistant secretary to the president, to be the best political prophet in White House circles, and President Roosevelt the worst. In a contest organized by Mr. Roosevelt at Hyde Park on the eve of last Tuesday's general elections, and participated in by White House aides and newspapermen traveling with the president, Mr. McIntyre named all but six of the victors in contests for the office of governor and senator. President Roosevelt was said by the tally clerks to have made 16 mistakes.

AGENTS ARE SAVED

Farm and Home Demonstration Work Is Continued Here

The office of the farm agent, important in the handling of AAA cotton payments, and the home demonstration worker, health nurse and other county services, were saved by the Hempstead Quorum Court in its session at Washington Monday despite a cut of $3,900 in the annual running expense of the county government.

Last year's budget balanced at $31,900, substantially the same as the year before—but the new budget was cut to $28,000.

Included in the appropriations was one for $450 covering the endorsement of a group of Hope business men several years ago for the balance of the purchase price for the ground occupied by the Fruit & Truck Branch Experiment Station.

John P. Cox appeared for the noteholders, including himself, W. W. Duckett, Ralph Routon, M. M. Smyth and others, explaining the circumstances of the city-county purchase of the Experiment Station site several years ago, in which a group of business men guaranteed eventual payment of the $1,000 balance principal and interest in order to obtain the station's location in Hempstead county.

May Sell 500,000 Bales to Germany

Government Proposes It to Expedite American Foreign Trade

WASHINGTON —(AP)—Efforts of four government agencies to promote a reopening of foreign markets were advanced another step Monday by a White House conference. The president called representatives of the Department of Agriculture, headed by Secretary Wallace; the Treasury Department; George N. Peek, his special advisor on foreign trade, and Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, to the White House for the discussion. The immediate transaction under consideration was an attempt to sell approximately 500,000 bales of American cotton to German cotton importers who need the commodity but have been unable to buy because of the adverse exchange rate. The government seeks to bring together American sellers and foreign buyers and use available government agencies to effect the deal. Through the procurement of foreign exchange, the government hopes to make this and similar sales possible. It was added, and in turn to sell the exchange at a discount to American importers. This would enable foreign nations to pay for what they buy in goods saleable in the United States.

The author of the Young Plan for the payment of German reparations will be the fourth of a series of prominent men to deliver addresses as a part of the Hendrix semi-centennial program. The celebration was begun with an address by Dr. John Ekins, noted author and educator, on October 10, 1933. Other distinguished men who have appeared on the program are Dr. Robert A. Millikan, physicist, who made a return visit to Hendrix last April after having dedicated the new science building in 1931, and Dr. John H. Finley, associate editor of the New York Times, who delivered the address at the 25th Hendrix commencement May 29.

No subject for Mr. Young's address next Tuesday has been announced, but Dr. J. H. Reynolds, president of the college, has said that it would be one of Mr. Young's own choosing, probably along education lines. The general theme of the series of addresses thus far has been an interpretation of the place of the small college of liberal arts in American life.

Mrs. Emma Akins of Hope, left Sunday for a visit to her brother, Lester Watson of Memphis who is an employee of Sears-Roebuck.

Let's Start Over

After an immense amount of trouble the vicar of a country parish succeeded in reconciling two old women who had been quarreling for years. He even induced them to meet under the vicarage roof.

In his drawing-room they shook hands. After an embarrassed silence one of them said:

"Well, Mrs. Tyler, I wish you all you wishes me."

"An' who's saying nasty things now?" snapped Mrs. Tyler.—Person's Weekly (London).

An old flintlock rifle, bearing the date 1839 near the hammer, is buried through the trunk of an oak tree at Chehalis, Wash. It has been said that the rifle was placed in the fork of the young oak as a friendly gesture after peace had been made with the redmen.

COLUMBIA had pointed for the Cornell game all year in 1930, and when Ralph Hewitt stepped back 10 yards from the scrimmage line, with the ball at midfield, and booted a 60-yard drop kick that crossed between the goal posts, cohorts of the Lions were jubilant.

But not for long! Cornell came back with a terrific drive that soon pushed over seven points — and the poor Lion was due to take its annual sock on the chin.

Then occurred one of the most dramatic plays of the season. Hewitt, on his own 10-yard line, caught the Cornell kickoff. On the dead run he sidestepped and stiff-armed his way down the field 90 yards for the Columbia touchdown that won the game, 10-7.

Underwriting of Industry Planned

U. S. Considering New Action as "Cheaper Than Dole System"

Copyright, by Associated Press

WASHINGTON, (AP)—A bold move to spur recovery, under which industry would be directed to expand production with the government bearing the risk of any losses thus entailed, is under consideration by high administration aides.

Some of those working on the proposal believe a plan can be developed by which millions of unemployed will be returned to work in private industry. Proponents say these new wages would provide purchasing power to absorb the increased production.

Their hopes are based on the theory that the nation is ready for a full industrial recovery, that if the government will absorb the risk of speeding up production, which many individual businesses are not, there will be ample demand for these extra goods.

Many proposals have been made for working out the scheme. One seriously considered would have the government figure out the normal demand for staple commodities and guarantee to purchase any production within that amount for which there was no market.

Proponents of the idea contend that if the plan were administered properly there would be no substantial surpluses for the government to buy. But even if there were, they contend, it would be cheaper in the end to take care of the unemployed in this way than through direct relief.

In short, they cite emergency expenditures of $1,271,000,000 already this year, and say it would be cheaper for the government to subsidize private industry, if necessary, to absorb the unemployed than to continue feeding the jobless direct.

A hint that higher officials are giving such proposals serious study was contained in a recent speech by Donald R. Richberg, the recovery co-ordinator, who said:

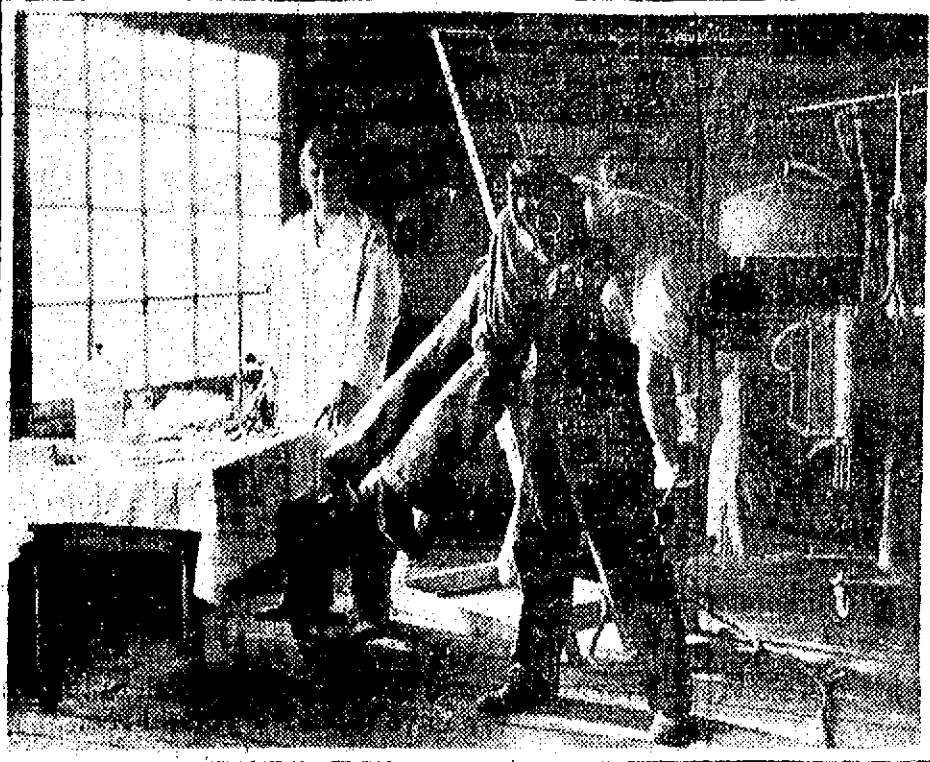

"We face the issue which is clearly emerging: Will private enterprise undertake now the risk of re-employing at least 4,000,000 or 5,000,000 willing workers, or must the federal government undertake to bring this about, either indirectly through underwriting private activities or directly through the expansion of self-liquidating public projects?"

Richberg suggested that if private enterprise did not undertake the work, it would be sounder to use "public credit and direction" than to continue direct relief or unproductive work relief.

Many economists are convinced of the soundness from an economic standpoint of the proposal. Their fears have centered rather on the practical working out of such a scheme, such as the details of advising each industry or each unit what its production should be.

How I Would Try to Bring the Dead to Life

The challenge to Death starts as John Finn, Jr., gas mask engineer, rushes the "dead" subject from the lethal gas chamber to the resuscitation apparatus. Ready to start the experiment without a moment's waste of time, Surgeon V. M. Margutti stands at the left and Dr. Robert E. Cornish behind the resuscitation equipment.

Speedily the subject is roped to the resuscitation board by Dr. Cornish, as Finn, center, and Margutti hold the patient's arms, preparatory to attempting artificial respiration and circulation.

The teetering process is begun by Finn, as Cornish and Margutti stand by the subject's head to observe progress in restored circulation and respiration. The position of the resuscitation board is alternated at six and eight second intervals and Cornish believes that enough blood flow can be stimulated to restart the heartbeat.

The head now is near the floor, blood rushing from the legs to pump the main arteries leading to the heart. An incision is made in the arm to prepare for the next step, of injection.

A step by step explanation of the process he would employ in attempting to bring the dead back to life is given by Dr. Robert E. Cornish, famed California scientist in this article which he has written exclusively for NEA Service. Success which he has achieved in restoring life to dogs, pronounced dead for several minutes, has spurred hope of Dr. Cornish that he can succeed in similar experiments with man.

BY DR. ROBERT E. CORNISH
(Copyright, 1934, NEA Service, Inc.)

BERKELEY, Calif.—When is a man dead? I recently asked the governors of three far-western states for permission to attempt resuscitation of convicts legally executed by lethal gas. There are four essential requirements in the methods I would employ: First, removal or neutralizing of the agent originally causing death. Second, artificial respiration. Third, starting the heart. Fourth, nursing the patient back to health.

Saves Drowning Victims.
Prof. George Hughling, swimming instructor at the University of California, has devised a method of resuscitation from drowning which promises to save many lives. He has demonstrated that it is possible to give artificial respiration while wading through the surf and carrying the body over his shoulder.

Hughling can even give artificial respiration while swimming and towing the body, if the water is not too rough. In an actual case in France, he had to carry an apparently drowned man a considerable distance through the surf to get him ashore.

By using the accepted carry, the victim's heart well might have stopped during the carry, so that Hughling might have applied artificial respiration ashore many hours without avail. But the man soon started to gasp and then to talk before Hughling even had him ashore.

Professor Hughling's method ignores the difficult third and fourth requirements, but secures maximum saving of time in the first and second. These two are ordinarily adequate, if continued long enough, and if started before the heart has stopped.

Shock May Affect Mind

For the third requirement, starting the stopped heart, there is no satisfactory method in general use, and present methods for the fourth leave much to be desired.

This may involve treating a condition similar to the dreaded and deadly "surgical shock." If the patient remains long in severe "shock," he is likely to be partly insane after he recovers, if he is fortunate enough to do so.

In case of the convict executed by inhaling hydrocyanic acid fumes, the first requirement would be partly met by John Finn, Jr. (a gas mask engineer), who would be ready, wearing a gas mask. He would enter the death chamber as soon as permitted after the prisoner was pronounced dead by physicians.

He would quickly remove the prisoner, and we would lay him on our resuscitation board and immediately inject methylene blue into his veins. This was shown to be an antidote for cyanide poisoning in rats, by Dr. Matilda Brooks of the University of California, and confirmed on men by Dr. J. C. Geiger of San Francisco.

Methylene blue neutralizes cyanide, but will not restart either the heart or breathing, according to Mrs. Brooks.

Therefore, immediately on laying the dead prisoner on the board, artificial respiration would be started by hand. In a few seconds the man would be tied to the board, and teetering starts immediately, following the methylene blue injection.

H. J. Henriques and I have showed that teetering not only produces artificial respiration, but also considerable artificial circulation of the blood.

The arterial blood would quickly become saturated with the life-giving oxygen. Also, by means of a mask held over the face, or perhaps preferably with a rubber tube put in the patient's windpipe through the mouth, the patient's lungs would be supplied with nearly pure oxygen, containing about 5 per cent carbon dioxide.

Prof. Yandell Henderson of Yale University found this mixture remarkably effective in starting breathing in new-born infants, or in other victims of asphyxia. Such gas mixture is now used by most fire department inhalator squads.

The teetering and giving of oxygen would continue several minutes, with the board six to eight seconds in each end-position.

Although the blood is circulated, we find this method alone will not start the heart of a dead sheep or dead dog.

However, with a stethoscope, or, better, the very sensitive "electrocardiograph," we would watch for the slightest sign of heart action.

Renewing the Heart Beat

Ringer, Solman, and others showed 50 years ago that the isolated heart, removed entirely from the dead body, may be started beating many hours after death. Thus Langendorf started the removed heart of a child dead from pneumonia, 22 hours after the child's death.

It appeared that starting of such heartbeats required not only injection or saturation of the arteries of the heart with a proper fluid, but also production in the heart's arteries of actual pressure at least equivalent to a column of water 15 to 20 inches high.

It is borne out in clinics that when the arterial pressure of a patient falls below this point, the heart stops in death. Solman was even able to produce several beats in a heart by injecting its (coronary) arteries with mercury (i. e., quicksilver, the liquid metal) if the proper pressure were used.

Now where the dead prisoner is being teetered, the nearness of his heart to one end of the body, and the large legs as compared with the small arms, might well allow sufficient pressure to be developed in the head-down position to enable the heart to start without external injection.

The prisoner would be closely observed for any sign of heartbeat. Yes, as there might be none, my surgeon, V. M. Margutti, would be disinfecting the prisoner's left arm, which would be extended to one side, so the teetering would not interfere unduly with the surgeon.

He would as quickly as possible expose a large artery in the left arm requiring from one to two minutes. If the heart were not yet started, he would proceed at once to inject a fluid into this artery under pressure, to ward the heart.

Liver Extract Used in Fluid

Such a fluid injection method was first used by Dr. George Crile of Cleveland. As carried out by him in 10 human cases, it usually was possible to restart both heart and respiration, but all 100 later died. In most cases the second death came in six to twelve hours, without the patient ever regaining consciousness.

Our fluid would differ from that of Dr. Crile in consisting principally of human blood, and also in containing heparin, a certain liver extract, for preventing clotting.

As the fluid was injected, epinephrine, a certain extract of adrenal glands, would be added to constrict the small arteries of the prisoner, so as to be better able to produce the necessary arterial pressure.

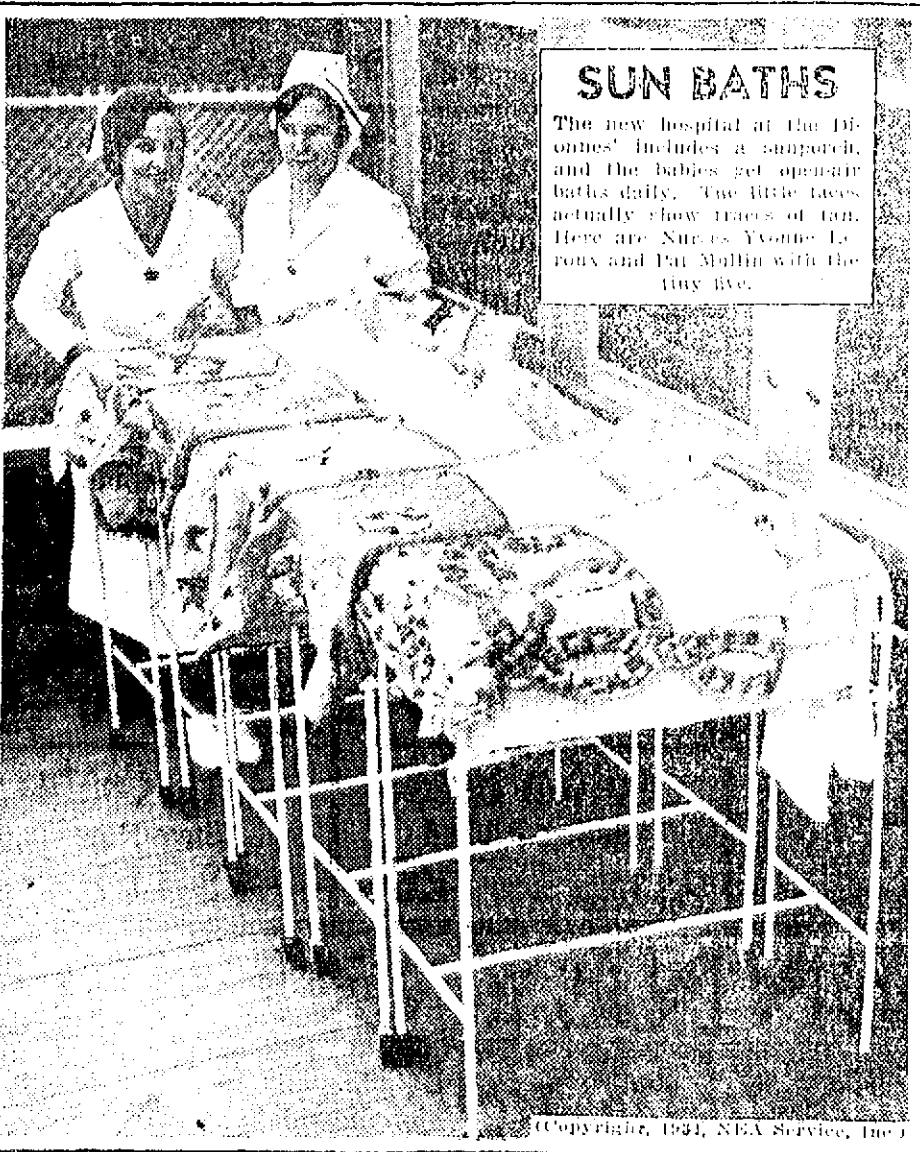

While the fluid is being injected, it would be desirable to apply intermittent smart pressure over the heart. Brief blasts of oxygen, blown into the lungs are also valuable in "bunting" the heart.

Since the heart would be still stopped, these blasts would be very brief with about a second's interval. If overdone, the pressure and dilation in the lungs apparently compress the fine capillaries of the lungs.

This would squeeze on the capillary blood, almost completely blocking any possible flow of blood through the lungs. But if the whole process were properly done, the heart would soon start to beat strongly.

The injection then would be stopped, but artificial respiration would need to be continued until the prisoner began to breathe by himself.

Quintuplets Thrive in Their New "Hospital Home"

SUN BATHS

The new hospital at the Dionne's includes a sunbath, and the babies get regular baths daily. The little faces actually show traces of tan. Here are Yvonne, Marie, and Pauline with the tiny five.

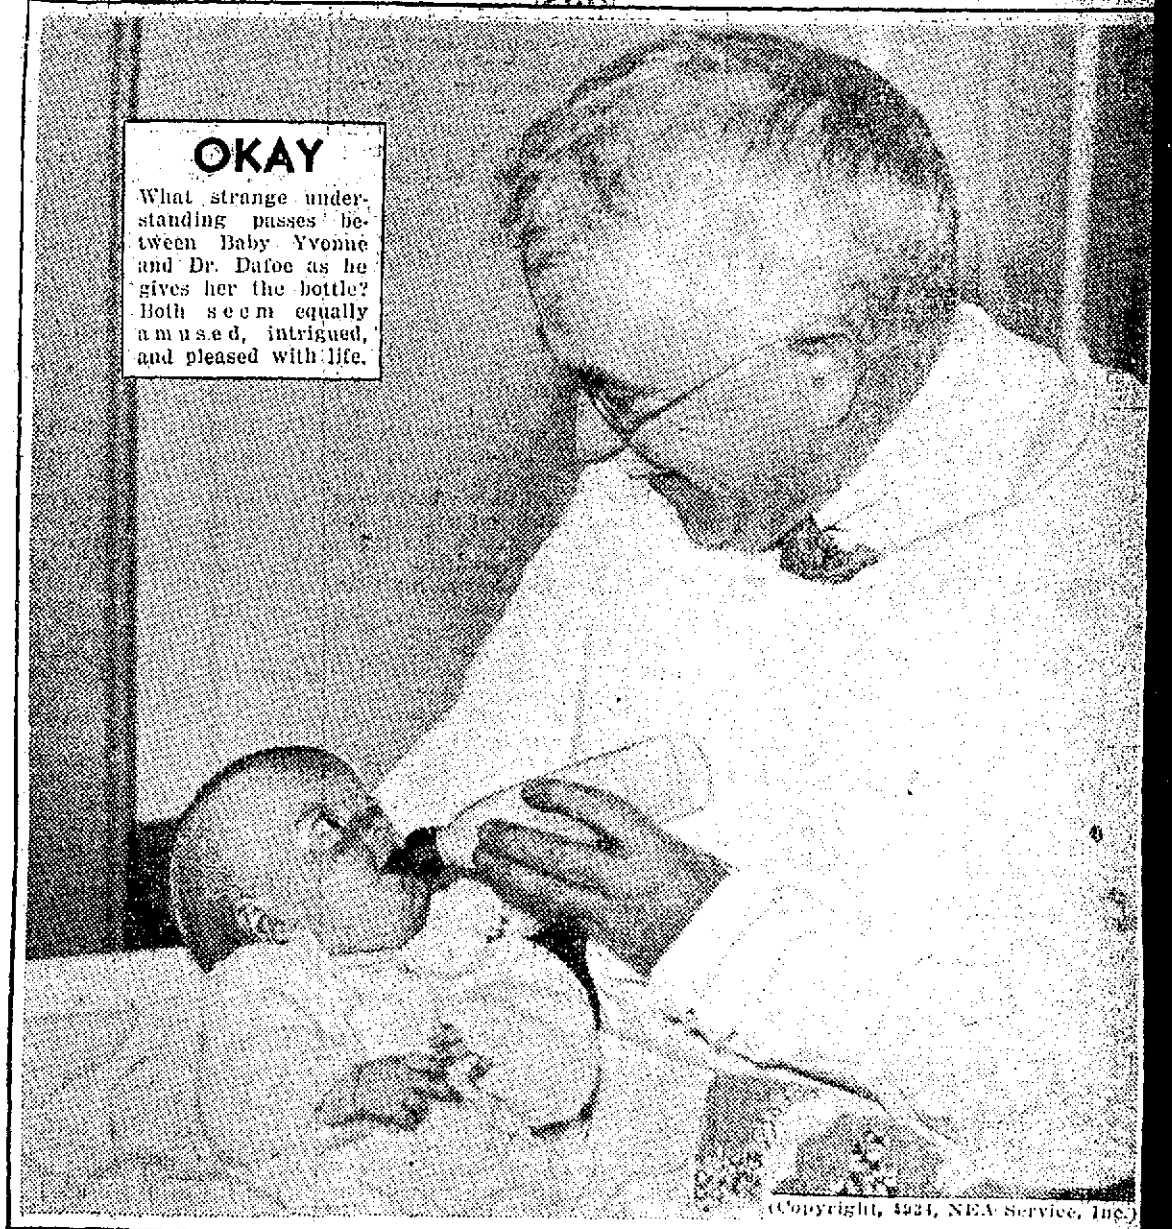

SUCH A BIG, WONDERFUL, BUSY WORLD!

Dolls and playthings have been added to the complications of a world that grows daily before the wide eyes of the Dionne quintuplets. They are all five of the husky young ladies, Yvonne, Annette, Cecile, Emilie, and Marie, now grown to such a size that Dr. Dafoe believes they have as good a chance to live and thrive as ordinary babies. They seem to enjoy the knitted jackets and new linens they display.

ONE DAY'S GRIST OF DIAPERS

Every day is laundry day at the Dionne's, and in a big way, too. Here's Miss Laurence Chastain with the formidable stock of clean diapers, towels, and other linens which must be ready daily for the comfort of the growing Dionne daughters.

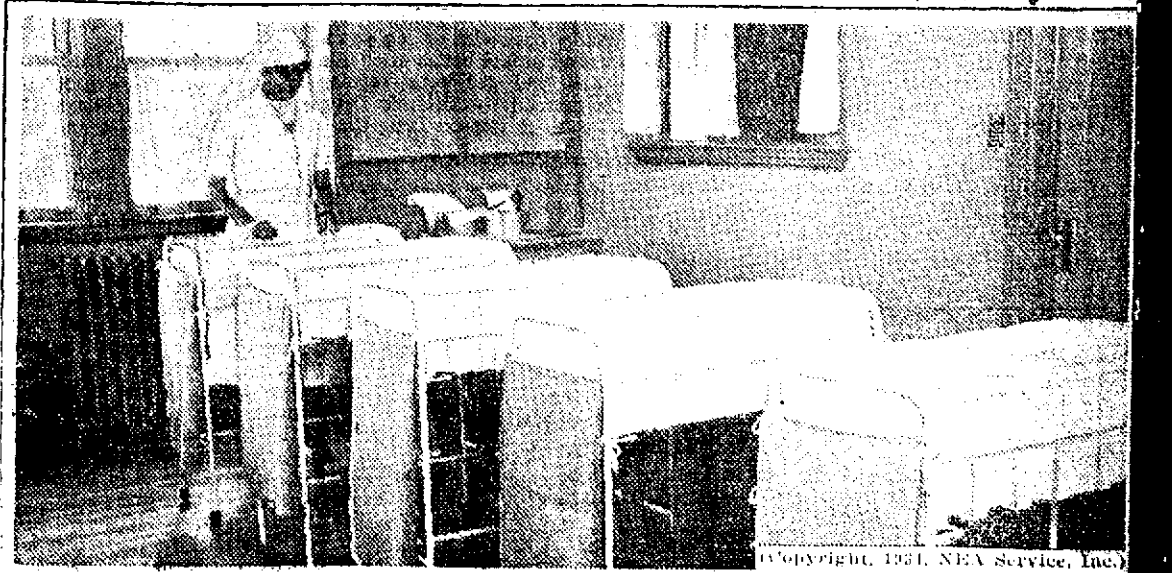

OKAY

What strange understanding passes between Baby Yvonne and Dr. Dafoe as he gives her the bottle? Both seem equally amused, intrigued, and pleased with life.

INSIDE A HOSPITAL-FOR-FIVE

Nurse De Kiriline puts the finishing touch to the list of the five little cribs in the special hospital built for the Dionne quintuplets. Note the spotless order, the steam heat, the sanitary cabinet and shelves which have been specially provided for the famous little girls.

Evangelist Points Road to Salvation

Mrs. Beasley Takes Text Monday From Acts 16:30—Sin Abnormal

Mrs. Beasley's text for her message Monday night was "Sin, what must I do to be saved," found in Acts 16:30. "This is one of the most important questions that was ever asked," Paul and Silas had accepted the call from God (and every preacher should certainly be divinely called) to go into Macedonia and were at the city of Philippi. As a result of preaching the gospel and casting of evil spirits out of a girl they had been thrown into prison. Sin is an abnormal condition and those living in sin are living an abnormal life. The reason some people aren't having trouble with the Devil is that they are not giving him any opposition. People forget that God has power. We have such little faith, we live so far from the Lord. About midnight Paul and Silas began to sing. Even though they were bound in stocks, they were not bound in spirit and God sent an earthquake opening the doors of the jail and liberating them from the stocks. The jailer then came trembling and asked the question of our text, "Sirs, what must I do to be saved." Paul's answer was "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved, and thy house."

"Salvation is a personal matter. People fear to get saved or sanctified because of what brother or sister or friends will say. Public opinion will not help us in that day or reckoning, and each must answer for himself. As for me and my house, we will serve the Lord. We cannot bargain with God. He has His plan of salvation and if we are ever saved we must come to His terms. "Of all the people in this world that incur the indignation of God Almighty, it is the self-righteous fellow. Your own righteousness will not recommend you to God. If you are ever saved, you will have to confess that you need to be saved. 'Except you repent ye shall also likewise perish.' Mrs. Beasley announced that the meeting would likely close with the Tuesday night service."

An Army of Goodwill

When members of the Junior Red Cross learned that school-books had been destroyed in the Kentucky floods last August they gave $100 from the National Children's Fund to buy new textbooks for use in the schools. The maximum membership for the Junior Red Cross last year was 7,350,250, an increase over the previous year of more than 250,000. They carry on civic and service programs in their own communities which each year bring comfort and pleasure to thousands of needy and unfortunate people. An international friendship is built up through correspondence with Junior Red Cross members in foreign countries.

2 New Dirigibles Planned for Navy

"Flying Deck" Cruiser Also Included in Construction Plans

Copyright, Associated Press
WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Prompt construction of two giant airships, an aircraft carrier and a "flying-deck" cruiser unlike any other ship now afloat was proposed privately Monday to the President's Aviation Commission. The recommendations were delivered by a man generally regarded as an administration and a navy spokesman—Chairman Vinson. Democrat, Georgia, of the House Naval Affairs Committee.

Without raising any war-scare specters, Vinson nevertheless informed the committee that many things should be done to make the navy's aerial forces absolutely top notch. Remembering that Vinson wrote the bill under which the navy's ship strength now is being built up to treaty limits, and that he convinced President Roosevelt money for the work should be allocated from public works funds, commission members received the Georgian's statement with more than usual interest. Vinson's recommendations were made with the knowledge and approval of the navy and possibly of the president as well.

of the fence, an Independent Republican, of Iowa.

Mr. Wallace takes less stock in the social program than other cabinet officers do. He sees clearly that if the Democratic party, or any other party, is to do lasting good for the American people it must revive foreign trade, to put money in the taxpayers' pocket, which puts money in the government's pocket, and removes the threat of government bond issues mounting to the peak of bankruptcy.

Secretary Wallace gave a deserved rebuke to the South last month when he charged that the cotton producing states had forgotten to press their time-honored demand for tariff reduction.

Such are the times in which we live—that an Iowa Republican rebukes the Democratic South for forgetting its low-tariff position.

XX X
American foreign trade has always drawn a sharp line between Republicans and Democrats. Traditionally, the West and South should stand together against the East. For the West and South produce raw materials which thrive best under low-tariff conditions allowing easy export to foreign nations; but the East thrives best under a high-tariff which gives it an exclusive domestic market for high-priced manufactured articles.

The ghost of this famous American issue can never be laid. The issue may be postponed, as it has been postponed up to this time—but sooner or later the Roosevelt administration must go to bat with Eastern industrialists to force a tariff reduction.

Secretary Wallace tells about it in his book "America Must Choose." Social rehabilitation is a political theme—but tariff reform is an economic necessity.

The Republican party has rattled the "full dinner-pail" issue before the American people for half a century. America expects the Democratic party to produce in time a dinner-pail no less substantial—either that, or the party will give way before the next Republican onslaught.

Instead of a "coalition" it is a war without quarter.

Factories to Be Built for Jobless

Would Make Shoes, Clothes and Building Materials for FERA

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—A plan designed eventually to put the millions of unemployed into jobs at lathe and looms, counters and benches gradually is taking form in the process of evolving a social security program. Ramifications of the stupendous task will be discussed Wednesday, but there is little likelihood that more than a slight indication of the trend of thought will be disclosed until later.

The Federal Relief Administration was disclosed Monday to have marshaled a vast plan for relief-finance workshops. In them will be manufactured a wide variety of goods for the needy unemployed. The plans are being distributed by the FERA.

Some of the instruction already drafted by administration engineers tell how to establish:

Shoe factories, each designed to turn out 1,200 pairs of shoes per week. Tanneries to prepare rough leather for use in relief work rooms.

Work rooms for the manufacture of men's and boys' suits and overcoats and women's coats.

Workshops to produce cotton trousers for the needy at a rate of 200 pairs each per week.

Saw mills and planing mills for the production of materials to build and repair homes for the destitute.

Hand-operated brick making plants, each capable of turning out 25,000 bricks per week to be used in construction by the needy unemployed.

Those who are pondering the problem place this task ahead of unemployment insurance in importance.

Unemployment insurance would be designed to assure those who have jobs, to some degree of certainty, that their income shall continue. It would not affect those who have no jobs to continue.

Old-Fashioned Mince Meat Was Rich With Beef and Suet

Not all the perfumes of Araby or of the best scent makers in this or any other country have anything to offer that is as alluring as the rich, spicy, fruity smell of a cold winter day of mince pie for dinner! Whether you make your own mince meat with tender fresh from the mill or buy it complete in jars or packages makes little difference, either, in these days of excellent manufactured products. The important thing is to make it with a crust as light as air and bring

Tomorrow's Menu
Breakfast: Apple sauce with dates, cereal, cream, creamed dried beef, popovers, milk, coffee.
Lunch: Baked squash, mince, tongue sandwiches, vegetable salad, filled cup cakes, milk tea.
Dinner: Cream of lima bean soup, toasted crackers, radishes, scalloped potatoes and eggs, stewed tomatoes, banana and peanut salad, steamed graham pudding, milk, coffee.

o its eating an old-time digestion and holiday enjoyment. Did you know, by the way, that puddings and cakes are made from mince-meats?

Fifty years ago mince meat lived up to its name and actually was thick with meat and rich with suet. The "receipts" called for a few raisins and "receipts" were made, suet, apples and boiled cider. Today some cooks omit the meat entirely, and concoct a toothsome mixture from nuts, candied fruits, currants, raisins, preserves and fruit juices carefully seasoned with sugar and spices. Some of the old receipts and "spirits" liberally and boiled cider, of course.

Boiled Cider Can Be Bought
I like boiled cider, and if I don't make my own, I know I can find very good brands on my grocer's shelves. Mince meat is a fine way to use up left-overs of last year's jelly that the family won't eat, sweet spiced vinegar from sweet pickles, juices from canned fruits and pieces of canned fruit.

Add the spirits just before putting into jars. Or wait until ready to bake pies and then add 2 tablespoons or more to each pie filling.

Mince Meat
Two pounds lean beef, ¼ pound beef suet, 1 pound apples, 2 pounds seeded raisins, 1 pound candied currants, 1 pound shredded citron, ¼ pound candied orange peel, ¼ pound candied lemon peel, 2 pounds light brown sugar, 1 quart sweet cider, the equivalent in fruit juices, 1 cup molasses, 1 cup boiled cider, 1 cup meat stock, 2 teaspoons salt, 1 nutmeg (grated), 1 tablespoon ground cinnamon, 1 tablespoon ground cloves, 2 teaspoons ground allspice, 1 cup preserved cherries, 1 pint brandy or sherry.

Any part of the beef can be used that is lean. Some people prefer the tongue to any other part although the neck and heart and other cheap cuts can be used. Boil meat until tender, adding 1½ teaspoons salt when half done. When meat is tender boil rapidly to reduce stock. When cool remove from stock and carefully trim away any bits of fat, bone or gristle.

Put meat through food chopper and strain stock. Pare, core and chop apples. Chop raisins and suet. Put all ingredients except preserves and brandy or sherry into preserving kettle. Bring to the boiling point and cook over a low fire for about two hours, stirring to prevent sticking. Add preserves and bring again to boiling point. Add brandy, pour into sterilized jars and seal.

6 Killed in Blast of Black Powder

Burned Terribly in Quarry Accident—No Detonation Heard

AVALON, Catalina Island, Calif.—(AP)—Six men were burned fatally and two others injured critically by searing flames when 7,500 pounds of blasting powder became ignited at a rock quarry on the southern end of the island Monday.

The explosion came while the men, employees at the quarry of the Rohl-Connolly Company, were transferring black powder from 25-pound tin containers to canvas sacks. The sacks were to be placed in a tunnel for blasting down rock.

One of the laborers said there was a sudden puff and in an instant the containers burst into flames. No detonation was heard. The place was an inferno of flames which quickly subsided, leaving the victims withering where they had fallen.

Mr. Gaden was not hard to interview. He got a big "kick" out of being remembered.

"Gaden is the name," he said, when approached at the rear of his car, just after making a speech about medicine.

"Can you beat it, me selling health products in your city?"

He laughed and talked freely of his associations with the Barrymore brothers, Wallace Reid, Bill Hart, Dolores and Helen Costello, and many other movie favorites.

Its outrageous—" "All right Dad," said the boy. "Don't get excited. I think I know how wars begin."—Hudson Star.

Second-Hand Auto Code Held Illegal

Federal Judge Throws Out NRA Procedure in Oklahoma

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla.—(AP)—Price-fixing provisions of the NRA retain automobile dealers' code were held unconstitutional Monday by Federal Judge Edgar S. Vaughn.

Holding that the government does not have jurisdiction over the private transactions of individuals within a state, Judge Vaughn dismissed indictments against J. A. Kinnebrew, Oklahoma City, and O. G. Ledbetter, Norman, automobile dealers, who were charged with buying and selling automobiles at prices lower than those specified by the code.

"The purpose of the act was to regulate industry in so far as it affected interstate commerce," Judge Vaughn ruled, "but it can hardly be contended, with any degree of reason, that the sale or purchase of a second-hand automobile in Oklahoma City between two persons, both of whom live in the same locality and within the same state, constitutes interstate commerce or affects or burdens interstate commerce."

"If it be true of a second-hand automobile, it would be true of a worn-out suit of clothes, a pair of shoes, or a discarded shirt, yet if a private citizen cannot dispose of such articles in which he actually has a property right without complying with some provisions of a code assumed to have been made by virtue of an act of congress, then congress matters of regulation which under the constitution were not only denied to congress but were delegated to the states."

Right-of-Ways to Be Donated State

No Money Allowed for This Purpose on U. S. Road Contracts

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—Contracts for the state's new 3½-million-dollar federally-financed highway program will not be awarded until all right-of-way titles have been settled, Highway Director J. C. Baker said Tuesday. He pointed out that the State Highway Department has no funds to purchase right-of-way or institute condemnation proceedings.
